A Linen Shower.

A linen shower was given to Alma E. Shepard at her home on Tuesday evening, December 29th. When she arrived home from her work she was greeted by a number of young ladies seated at a large dining table, which was decorated with red streamers and covers hearts, presided over by a Kewpie. These young ladies numbering sixteen were impatiently waiting for her to take her place as hostess. After the first effects of the surprise were over she was finally seated and was asked to read numbers from a silver dish. The supper was served in covered dishes. These were numbered to correspond with the ones in the silver dish. All sorts of nice things were revealed from under covers, including scallops, hot rolls, pickles, cake, salads and pud- dings. Ice cream was then served by Mrs. Elinor Shepard and Mrs. Etta Buck. Then all adjourned to the parlor where Miss Shepard read the hidden gifts. Many pretty and useful things were found. We think that which pleased Miss Shepard most was "The Evolutions of the Alma and Elmer," edited by the young ladies, which she declared very true to life.

The rest of the evening was spent in playing games, music and dancing. It was getting late and all were dis- appointed that the time had passed so quickly and were told that a big sled was prepared to take them home. All wished Miss Shepard happiness, health and prosperity. The following were present:—Berenice Nash, Marjorie Barker, Marguerite Welch, Sara True, Thelma Gerry, Beatrice Stone, Lillian Powers, Marion Gibson, Clara Shepard, Mildred Curtis, Ava Andrews, Fannie Buck, Christine Leavitt, Doris Shepard, Mildred Curtis, Bula Bicknell.

Partridge-Sturtevant.

An attractive home wedding took place Wednesday evening, Dec. 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Whitman, when their granddaughter, Geneva, wife of Donald Barrows Partridge, son of Mrs. W. S. Partridge of Norway Lake. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry Rowe of Lewiston, a College friend of the bride and bridegroom, at 8 o'clock in the presence of the immediate families in the contracting parties. The bridal couple stood beneath an arch of evergreen and white pinks from which a wedding bell was suspended. The single ring service was used. The bride was hand- somely gowned in white satin-entraine, with pearl trim- mings and carried brides roses. The groom wore the conventional black. Mr. and Mrs. Partridge attended the wedding. The bride had many friends, and graduated in the class of 1910. They were also students at Bates College and took active parts in all the college events and were prominent in the social life of the college. They graduated in June 1914. After the ceremony dainty refresh- ments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Partridge were the recipients of many wedding gifts including silver, cut glass and silver. They will reside in Canton where Mr. Partridge is principal of the high school.

Oswell-Swett.

A pretty home wedding took place Thursday afternoon at the home of E. N. Swett on Main street, when his niece, Eva F. Swett, was united in marriage to James H. Oswell of Woodland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. T. McWhorter of the South Paris Con- gregational church, of which the bride is a member. Bessie Haggett of South Paris was bridesmaid and Francis H. Swett, a cousin of the bride, was best man. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families and a few intimate friends. Those present were: William H. Swett, E. N. Swett and family, Miss E. W. Forbes of Wakefield, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jenkins of Paris Hill, George L. Curtis and family, Har- rev. A. T. McWhorter and family, Har- ris Dunham, Mrs. T. S. Barnes, Helen Barnes, Mrs. and Mrs. Ralph Butts, Katherine Morton and Mrs. Wilbur Sturtevant, all of South Paris.

After the ceremony refreshments of ice cream, fancy crackers and punch were served. The parlor was prettily decorated with cut flowers. The bride was handsomely gowned in a traveling suit of navy blue. Mrs. Oswell is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Swett of South Paris and her graduation from the South Paris High school has been teach- ing school. Mr. Oswell is the son of Mrs. A. A. Jenkins of Paris Hill and is an electrician by trade and is employed by the St. Croix Paper Co. at Woodland. Mr. and Mrs. Oswell left by team for Oxford and took the afternoon train for Woodland, where they will make their home.

The Barton Reading Club was enter- tained Thursday afternoon by Mrs. W. Whitmarsh. Grace Bicknell of Water- town, Mass., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bicknell, gave an in- teresting talk on Germany, where she spent the summer being there when war was declared. At the all day session of the Norway Grange held Saturday, Dec. 26th, three new members were initiated, and two applications were presented for mem- bership. Ethel Millett of Haverhill, Mass., is the guest of her father, J. I. Millett and sis- ter, Berly. Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Mundy are spend- ing the holidays in New York. Edith Parker is having a week's va- cation from her work at Smiley's dry goods store. Harriet Cragin of Rockland, Mass., was a week end guest of her mother, Mrs. Susan Cragin. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wood of Auburn returned Sunday night after a few days spent with Mrs. Wood's sister, Mrs. A. L. Buck. Mrs. Vivian Richardson is assisting at the Atherton Furniture store for a week during their sale. Ruth Cummings and Marion Haskell are playing at Rex Theatre this week. Miss Cummings plays the piano and Miss Haskell the violin.

Basket Ball.

Probably no other city can boast of such a liberal lot of tobacco dealers as the city of Lewiston. On Xmas they allowed five of their Mohawks, the last of the Mohawks, to have the bunch of cigars removed from their hands and sent to Norway for an invasion. Norway basket shooters were not even called upon to take the defensive for the Mohawks were a bunch of dead ones at the start, and at the end of the first half of the battle the Lewiston team did not know they were in a basket ball game and he saw something that before them had not come to his notice, the basket, and he shot, and he made a goal and with one foul made from a foul gave them 3.

The only disappointing part of the Im- perian's shot was a remark from a young lady in the balcony, "That was only luck." When an Indian has practised a shooting cabbage into a barrel all fall and then proves that practice makes per- fect, it is discouraging to have the credit of a scientific shot go for nothing. Manager Klein has given a solemn promise that no more such teams appear on the schedule and a glance at those coming will about prove it. Line-up:—

Recollections of Early Settlers of Greenwood.

By PROF. A. E. VERRILL of Yale University.

The Hicks family, from which the lake or pond took its name, settled here very early, but I do not know the date. Recollections of their old log house existed when I lived there. Descendants of the Hicks family were still living in Greenwood a few years ago, and perhaps some are there now.

Gilman Cordwell tells me that when he was young he knew of at least three localities where log houses of the Hicks family had been built, near or around the pond; some of them remained there in a ruined condition. The one believed to be the earliest was on the western side of the pond, opposite the house later built by Tibbets on the eastern shore, by the roadside, a little north of Mud Land, and still standing. Another was on the road northwest of the pond, near the Griffith Trull farmhouse, near the water, and therefore near the Sanborn Brook and the Francis Cordwell farm. Therefore the origin of the name is obvious enough. I can learn but little about the family. They were doubtless very early settlers.

Reverend Edward Whittle, His Descendants.

Rev. Edward Whittle came to Greenwood from Bethel in 1814. He located his farm on the lower slopes of Herrick Mountain, not far from the lake. In addition to what was said of him in a former article (Aug. 21, 1914), I may add something more, for he was among the ablest and most influential of the early settlers there.

He was born at Charlestown, S. C., March 11, 1766, and was an only child. He became a Methodist when 10 years old. According to his own "testimony," his conversion was similar to that of St. Paul, the evangelist. He was licensed to preach by Bishop Whatcote in Baltimore, March 8, 1786. He became a travelling preacher in Maryland and Pennsylvania; he was at Huntington near Baltimore, in 1801; and at Portland, Me., in 1804. He preached on Chebeague Island, and also became a painter. He sold his house in Portland, in 1811, and went to Bethel, where he lived about three years before moving to Greenwood. In the latter place he was chosen "thything-man" in April, 1816. He died April 15, 1864, aged 98 years. An obituary notice of him appeared in Zion's Herald, shortly after his death.

His wife was a daughter of Enoch and Mary (Atkins) Higgins. She died March, 1861. His children were: Richard, born 1805, died 1857, married Lydia Poole; Edward, born 1806, died 1859, aged 53 years; Mary, born 1807, died 1895, aged 81 years, married Joseph Steers; Martha, born 1804, died 1886, aged 82 years, married Moses Yates of Greenwood, son of Rev'd Wm. Yates. He died in 1890. His descendants are given in the Yates genealogy, by Edgar Yates.

Richard Whittle and most of his children were mentioned in my article of Aug. 21. It should be added that his wife was Lydia Poole, born May, 1812, daughter of Melvin Poole of Norway and Greenwood, who married Abigail, daughter of Solomon Bryant, of Paris.

Their eldest son was Estes H., who died unmarried. His daughter, Lorinda, married Albert Burnham, the school teacher. They lived in Ellsworth, Me. She married at or near Lynn, Mass. Lydia Whittle, who married Cyrus Buck, had three children, who died young of diphtheria. Seaver Burton Buck, son of Lydia (Whittle) Buck is a Harvard graduate, now a teacher at Tarrytown, New York. Mary Whittle married Joseph Stevens, born 1805. He was the eldest son of Amos and Deborah (Vickery) Stevens, whose house was the first to take fire in the fire of May, 1862, which destroyed the whole village, except the old church. They lived in one-half of the large, two story, double, white house at the northern end of the village, on the corner lot. Winthrop Stevens lived in the other part. Joseph Stevens had a very attractive daughter, named Thankful, who was one of my school teachers. Their other children were Sophia; Osgood; Lawson; and I think, Mercy Ann. Melissa, a sister of Joseph, used to visit his family very often. She was an attractive girl. She married, first, Amos Cross; second, Isaac Libby, and had children. She died at Norway, Dec. 29, 1913, aged 94 years, from an accident, breaking her hip. She was active up to that time.

Edward Whittle married Caroline Hobbs, born 1809, daughter of Jeremiah 2d, of Norway. He was mentioned, with most of his children, in a former article (Aug. 21). Robert, son of Edward, is still living in Arlington, Mass., aged about 82 years. One of his daughters married Benjamin Henry White, and settled in California. She thought to be living. Wesley Whittle married Josephine Flanders and settled in Malden, Mass. He was a veteran of the Civil War. He had children. He died several years ago.

Seth B. Hilborn; His Descendants; First Sawmill.

One of the earliest and most enterprising settlers of Greenwood City was my grandfather, Seth B. Hilborn, who lived there for many years. He was born in 1790 and died in 1878, aged 88 years. He had a large family of girls and one son, Erastus, who married Mary (or Polly) Patch and lived at Locke's Mills, about 1850 to 1854. Several of his daughters married in Greenwood. Harriet married Francis Bennett, Jr., who lived north of the village, but later had a store there which was burned. Lydia married Isaac Wentworth, already mentioned; Louisa married Eli Gosse, with near fatal results, by Dr. Grover of Bethel. He settled in Portland, as did Francis Bennett. Lucy H., my mother, married George W. Verrill, previously mentioned. Others, who married in Portland, were Ann, who married Horace Richardson; and Emily Jane, who married James Pressey. Esther died unmarried.

Seth B. Hilborn moved to Greenwood from Poland or Mohegan, probably, about 1830. He soon afterwards built there a sawmill and gristmill, and also a tavern. The latter was on the east side of the street, at the upper end of the village. It was a large house, for those days there, with a broad front veranda and well furnished inside. There was a large stable well separated from the house, and a large orchard and garden back of it. Scarcely a trace of it now remains.

He removed to Portland previously to my earliest recollections of village life, and he and wife after visited my parents in summer while we lived in Greenwood. On such occasions he was fond of taking long and reminiscent walks with the boys. He was particularly fond of "hiving" honey-bees, which he said he had often done, when young, in Greenwood, and had, in that way, found many nests of wild bees.

Many times I went with him to distant hills and pastures to get a line of bees started, by confining bees, caught on wild flowers, in a glass-covered box until they had eaten all they would, when we released them, waiting more or less patiently until they came back, sometimes from several directions. Often we got a good line of bees started, so that we could follow the direction, more and more bees coming to the honey. Sometimes we made our way through thick woods and through swamps for a mile or two, and just as we were expecting to find a dead tree with a good nest of wild bees in it, we would find ourselves in some farmer's barnyard, feeding his bees!

Sunshine Makes Sugar.

A few years ago, Ella Wheeler Wilcox wrote a newspaper article headed, "Why sugar you do keep sweet." Well this is some job, isn't it? Why, you have to be sweet first; to keep so isn't so hard. To be sweet you have to have something to counteract the acid, but if you put in sugar enough you will make a drink everybody likes. It is the sweetness in a sour apple that makes it agreeable, but it takes sunshine and growth for that.

Sunshine makes sugar and spiritual sunshine is love. Love is spiritual sugar. Being sweet is having love for your fellow beings, not for one only or a few but for all of them; not necessarily for all there is in them but for the lovable things and they all have some of these things. The lovable things we must overlook for we have some of those of our own. None of us are wholly sweetened as yet.
